Chops, Eggs Pace Record Living Cost

Prices Continue Previous Gains;
Hike Brings Pay Raise To GM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—Pork chops and eggs led the way today to a new all-time high in the cost of living.

A Bureau of Labor Statistics report that the increase was 1.2 percent over the previous month automatically invoked a unique contract clause under which 330,000 General Motors workers will receive pay adjustments.

The GM pay scale is pegged to the BLS cost of living index. Today's adjustment will produce a three-cent hourly pay hike for 265,000 workers with the first pay period beginning in September.

Another 65,000 salaried workers will receive lump sum payments ranging from $25 to $40.

The price index on July 15 stood at 173.7 percent of the 1935-39 average for a new record high.

NOT REFLECTED, however, were recent sharp declines in prices of many basic commodities, including most grains, cotton, soybeans and lamb.

Normally some weeks elapse before such price drops show up in the form of lower prices for finished goods.

BLS said the mid-July index of all prices was 9.7 above a year ago; 30.3 percent above June 1946 when price controls lapsed, and 76.2 percent above the level of prewar 1939.

Retail food prices were up 1.3 percent over a month earlier. Meats, poultry and fish were again out front with a 2.6 percent climb spearheaded by a 6.1 percent hike in the price of pork chops.

Egg prices were up seasonally by 5.2 percent; all dairy products rose 1.5 percent, milk 1.7 percent and cheese 2.9 percent.

Circleville, Cincy Hottest Spots In State Tuesday

Ohio sweltered along with the rest of the midwest Wednesday in the grip of the season's worst heat wave.

Near-record temperatures were expected in most portions of the state, matching those of 90-plus Tuesday. However, southwest breezes and relatively low humidity were expected to keep discomfort to a minimum.

Forecasters declared there still is no relief in sight within the next 48 hours. The scorching temperatures and cloudless skies will continue at least until Saturday.

Pickaway County's First Peacetime Draft Board Is Organized With Emmitt Morgan Elected Chairman

Pickaway County's first peacetime selective service board was organized formally Tuesday evening with Emmitt F. Morgan of Circleville elected chairman.

Other members of the board are Harold J. Bowers of Ashville, vice-chairman; and Harry Puffinbarger of near Williamsport, secretary.

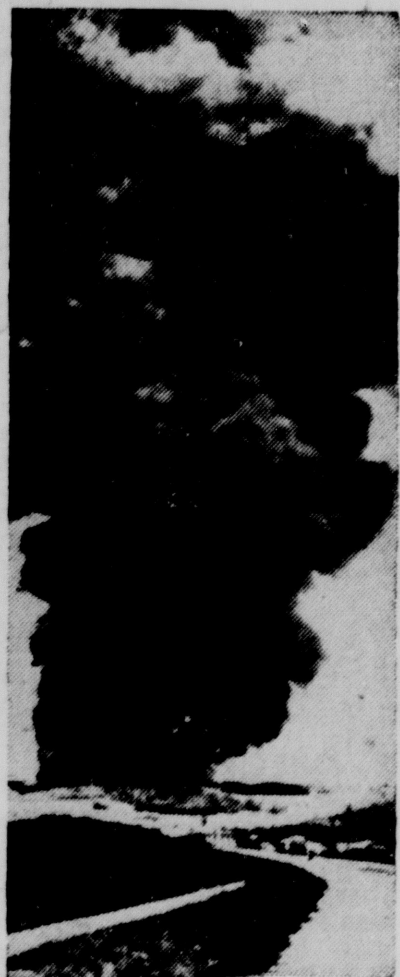

Morgan was the third member of the board named. His selection came this week. Bowers and Puffinbarger had been named about two weeks ago. Selection of the draft board, the only one which will serve this county, was made by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Radcliff, Probate Judge Sterling Lamb and County Auditor Fred Tipton. They were named by Ohio Governor Thomas Herbert following instructions from President Truman.

TUESDAY evening's organization meeting also named a full-time clerk for the board.

This position, Board Chairman Morgan revealed, will be filled by Betty M. Miner of Circleville, recently employed in the clerical department of a local milling company.

The board will maintain offices on the second floor of Pickaway courthouse, in a room originally meant to be used by the Pickaway Bar Association.

The board verified a schedule for registration which will begin next Monday and continue through Sept. 18 according to age groups. The schedule follows:

BILLING black clouds of oil-fired smoke rise from a fire which burst out in two 35,000-gallon aviation gasoline storage tanks in Guam. One man was killed and three are missing.

Mrs. Kosenkina
To See Reporters

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—A horde of reporters and photographers waited at Roosevelt hospital today to hear Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina tell her own story of her leap from the Soviet consulate window two weeks ago.

This morning, the big Russian farmer from Freehold, N. J., who gave sanctuary to two other Russian teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Mikhail Samarin, waited patiently for two hours for a chance to see Mrs. Kosenkina.

The farmer, H. Schibanoff, left when hospital officials said Mrs. Kosenkina did not want to see anyone at that time. They promised to call him later if the teacher so desired.

Schibanoff, a big amiable man, spoke only briefly to the report-

Soviets To Close Consulates Here

Secretary Marshall Minimizes
Move; Says It 'Common Pattern'

LONDON, Aug. 25—Russia struck back at America's expulsion of Consul General Jacob Lomakin today by ordering the closing of the Soviet Union's two U. S. consulates in New York and San Francisco.

At the same time, the USSR demanded the closing of the American consulate in Vladivostok, Russian Pacific port, and the cancellation of plans for a U. S. consulate in Leningrad.

These new developments in the East-West "war of nerves" were embodied in an official note from the Kremlin, to the U. S. government. Contents of the note were broadcast by Radio Moscow.

In Washington, Secretary of State Marshall today minimized Moscow's action in closing its consulates.

Marshall pointed out that both governments will have facilities to carry on their operations on a limited basis despite the surprise move announced by Moscow last night.

MARSHALL said the Soviet action was not entirely unexpected. He declined to amplify this minimizing of the surprise element in the Soviet move, saying only that it followed a common pattern.

On the Soviet side, he explained, the Amtorg Trading Corp. will continue to carry on commercial matters in the United States as it has for many years. Marshall explained that U. S. consul personnel in Vladivostok had been so restricted in their movements that their presence there has been of little value.

Moreover, he explained the U. S. has little trade moving through Vladivostok.

The Russian note rejected as "unfounded and not corresponding with the facts" the State department's charges against Lomakin, the New York consulate chief, in connection with the cases of the fugitive school teachers — Oksana Kosenkina and Mikhail I. Samarin. The decision to abolish the Russian consulates, said the note, stemmed from the fact that Soviet representatives in the U. S. are now subject to "obvious infringements of universally accepted rules of international usage."

THE SOVIET note dealt at length with the Kosenkina case, offering a detailed defense of (Continued on Page Two)

Berlin Talks To Continue

Consul Issue
Has No Effect

MOSCOW, Aug. 25 — Well-informed sources took the view today that the decision to close Soviet consulates in the United States will have virtually no effect on the Kremlin talks on Berlin.

In London, British foreign office circles regarded as a hopeful sign the reported "concession" made by Premier Stalin to the Western envoys on the Berlin currency issue.

But their original optimism dimmed somewhat after more details of Stalin's "concession" were received in London. The Soviet leader was said to have attached almost "unacceptable" conditions to an offer to permit four-power control of machinery to make the Soviet mark the exclusive currency in Berlin.

According to these sources, Stalin's conditions would give the West little or no say in the administration of the Soviet currency once it is established in Berlin, but the fact that he made the offer to save the talks from collapse was regarded as hopeful.

COSTS NEARLY DOUBLED

Rural Educators Facing Tough Financial Problem

Voters in at least six Pickaway County rural school districts will feel the burden in November of mounting educational costs when they ballot on increased tax levies.

The problem facing administrators of the county school system lies in the fact that operational costs during the last term almost doubled the total expense account of five years ago.

Districts which already have filed petitions for increased tax levies are Harrison Township — two mills; Monroe Township — two mills; Perry Township — three mills; Wayne Township — three mills; New Holland — five mills; and Ashville — two mills.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of Pickaway County schools, emphasized that even though operational expenses have nearly doubled, no school in the county is in the red.

However, he pointed out, some of the schools will begin the 1949-50 term with a balance of funds lower than ever has been reported in recent years.

The superintendent's report showed that in 1942-43, Pickaway County schools operated on a total budget of $408,491.44. Last (Continued on Page Two)

Spy Probe Brings Men Face-To-Face

Solons Seeking To Spot Perjury

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 — Alger Hiss and Whittaker Chambers, the man who accuses him of having been a Communist agent in the high brackets of the United States government, dramatically confronted each other today.

The two met face to face at an open hearing of the House Un-American Activities Committee, in a room jammed with tense and sweltering spectators.

Rep. Nixon, (R) Calif., bluntly stated the prime issue in the case after Hiss had identified Chambers, confessed ex-Communist and now a high-salaried senior editor for Time magazine, as a man he knew as "George Crosley."

Nixon declared: "The issue in the hearing today is whether Mr. Hiss or Mr. Chambers has committed perjury before this committee as well as whether Mr. Hiss is a Communist."

Nixon said Hiss and Chambers would be questioned closely on the matter of their acquaintanceship "because it is on that issue that the truth of falsity of their statements will stand or fall."

The congressman told Hiss:

"WHETHER you knew Chambers as a Communist—that is the question."

Hiss admitted that he had been unable to find anyone except his wife and himself who knew "George Crosley." But, his voice rising in one of his infrequent displays of emotion, he added:

"I shall continue without rest my efforts to find information on this man. I think we are just beginning the inquiry."

Hiss has denied under oath Chambers' charges that he was a member of an "elite" Communist underground apparatus in the government.

He covered again today the ground of his denials.

The tall, boyish-looking witness, now president of the Carnegie Peace Endowment, described his efforts to gather information on "Crosley."

He said one of his lawyers had received a telephone call from a woman who said she had known "George Crosley" but that "she was fearful of getting (Continued on Page Two)

Normally, a "0" is nothing but nothing.

Except—when one of them gets lost.

A very important "0" was lost by The Circleville Herald Tuesday, somewhere between the Pickaway County board of elections and the Herald's paper-gobbling press.

It appeared—or disappeared—in a Page One story concerning a two-mill levy which will appear on the November ballot for the benefit of improvements at Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

In the Herald story, the total yield from the two mills was reported at $10,000. Had the missing "0" been present, the figure—actual and true—would have read $100,000.

The Pickaway County Agricultural Society, managers of the Fairgrounds, owes the county $10,000 alone. Then there are many little odd jobs of repairs the society feels must be done as soon as possible.

It can't get all that done—plus improvements, too — if very many "0s" turn up missing. And that's not considering the possibility that John Q. Voter might refuse to give the society even as much as "0" when ballot-marking time comes.

Public Going Into Debt

Bank Cautions Average Yank

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—The Federal Reserve Board warned today that the American public is going into debt faster than any time in the past.

The board laid responsibility for the inflationary heavy debt expansion on workers receiving a record amount of income.

It pointed to natural economic tendencies for consumers to go into debt more heavily at times of high employment, large incomes and substantial accumulated savings.

The board declared that a demand for scarce commodities damped up by four years of war has been a contributing factor to the upward price spiral.

It predicted that mortgage debts on homes and short-term credit will have passed the $50 billion mark by the end of the year.

THE BOARD disclosed its current outlook in this month's issue of the Federal Reserve Bulletin. The article explained:

"The unprecedented volume of home buying during this three-year period has added approximately $10 billion to the outstanding mortgage debt on one-to-four family non-farm homes, bringing the aggregate to more than $32 billion.

With regulation of installment credit to be effective on Sept. 20, the board emphasized the necessity of the 80th Congress anti-inflation provision.

"During the war, a record volume of savings distributed widely among American families was accumulated," the article stated and added:

"The reduction in debt together with the much higher level of personal incomes put consumers in a strong financial position."

The board warned: "Further expansion of installment credit can neither increase output nor put more people to work."

"It can only add more purchasing power to the already swollen spending stream and reinforce inflationary pressures."

Pickaway County's First Peacetime Draft Board Is Organized With Emmitt Morgan Elected Chairman

Pickaway County's first peacetime selective service board was organized formally Tuesday evening with Emmitt F. Morgan of Circleville elected chairman.

Other members of the board are Harold J. Bowers of Ashville, vice-chairman; and Harry Puffinbarger of near Williamsport, secretary.

Morgan was the third member of the board named. His selection came this week. Bowers and Puffinbarger had been named about two weeks ago.

Selection of the draft board, the only one which will serve this county, was made by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Radcliff, Probate Judge Sterling Lamb and County Auditor Fred Tipton. They were named by Ohio Governor Thomas Herbert following instructions from President Truman.

TUESDAY evening's organization meeting also named a full-time clerk for the board.

This position, Board Chairman Morgan revealed, will be filled by Betty M. Miner of Circleville, recently employed in the clerical department of a local milling company.

The board will maintain offices on the second floor of Pickaway courthouse, in a room originally meant to be used by the Pickaway Bar Association.

The board verified a schedule for registration which will begin next Monday and continue through Sept. 18 according to age groups. The schedule follows:

Aug. 30: Men born in 1922 after Aug. 30, 1922.
Aug. 31 and Sept. 1: Men born in 1923.
Sept. 2 and Sept. 3: Men born in 1924.
Sept. 4 and 7: Men born in 1925.
Sept. 8 and 9: Men born in 1926.

Sept. 10 and 11: Men born in 1927.
Sept. 13 and 14: Men born in 1928.
Sept. 15 and 16: Men born in 1929.
Sept. 17 and 18: Men born in 1930, before Sept. 19, 1930.

Registrations will be made in common pleas courtroom of the courthouse from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day.

IN CASE of a trial being underway in the courtroom, registration site will be shifted to a jury room on the same second-floor of the courthouse.

Miss Miner will be the only person connected with Pickaway selective service who will receive any salary. Several assistant clerks and registrars will be recruited to assist with the initial registration.

Judge Radcliff said Wednesday that all members of the bar association have volunteered to assist with this sign-up. Other volunteers probably will be used since an estimated 2,500 Pickaway County youths will be eligible for the registration.

George D. Young of Circleville has been designated as the government appeal agent who will hear appeals after the first draft call is made—possibly not until in November.

Two Circleville attorneys, Ray W. Davis and J. W. Adkins, Jr., have been named as legal advisers to registrants and they will give assistance to prospective draftees without charge.

Two of the members of the new draft board are ex-servicemen.

Morgan served as a Navy radarman aboard a troop transport during the Pacific campaign in World War II. Puffinbarger was a machinegunner during the first war.

BOWERS, "too young for the first war and too old for the second," served during World War II as a member of the War Chest and was chairman for a year of the county's American Red Cross chapter.

The three draft board members represent an excellent cross-section of Pickaway County life. Morgan is a butcher associated with the Clarence W. Wolf store in downtown Circleville. Puffinbarger is an ex-mayor of Williamsport and an active farmer. Bowers is affiliated with the state department of education in Columbus and makes his home in Ashville.

her employer in Dutch with the publicity."

Hiss admitted that the mysterious phone call could not be traced.

He testified also that he is attempting to locate a family who lived next door to the apartment he said he rented to "Crosley."

Most of the morning session was given over to bitter wrangling about that Washington apartment.

Hiss said that his brother, Donald, who also was named by Chambers as a Communist, cannot recall having known "Crosley."

THE WITNESS emphasized his conviction that his case rests in large part on the "Crosley" matter. He said fervently:

"I hope I will be able to find others than myself and my wife who knew Crosley."

Chambers sat in stern silence as Hiss testified.

Hiss launched into a detailed account of his relations with "Crosley." He said he last saw that individual in 1935. Chambers challenged this, declaring the date was 1938.

Committee Chairman Thomas, (R) N. J., opened the public hearing by reviewing the charges and counter-charges in the case.

The hearing room was hushed as Thomas quoted Chambers' testimony that "a Communist apparatus" operated in the government during the period 1934-37 and that "Alger Hiss was a member of this group."

Thomas, his bald head gleaming under the merciless glare of klieg lights, told how Hiss had denied the charge under oath and had denied that he ever knew a man named Whittaker Chambers.

The chairman said that the purpose of the "Communist" to which chambers linked Hiss was "Communist infiltration of the American government, with espionage as one of its eventual objectives."

Chambers, although pale, gave no sign of worry. When he spoke, it was with deliberate emphasis.

Thomas refused Hiss' demand that he be allowed to read his denunciation of the committee's "trigger" tactics and his challenge of Chambers' veracity.

Thomas in an opening statement said that "Congress and the American people are entitled to the truth in this important matter" and added: "These hearings will be fair and impartial."

Army Probing Pair Of Air Accidents

NEWTON, N. J., Aug. 25—A three-pronged investigation opened today into the mid-air collision and crash of two U. S. Air Force planes over Newton, in which nine men were killed.

The Army, Civil Aeronautics Authority and New Jersey state police launched separate probes into the flaming crash of a C-47 transport plane on a New Jersey farm following its collision with a B-25 bomber.

Seven enlisted men and two crew members of the transport were killed when the plane crashed. The B-25 carried two officers and an enlisted man. All escaped injury.

In another AAF accident, 16 airmen were killed and four critically injured last night when a B-29 superfortress crashed and burst into flames at Honolulu's Hickam Field.

The wrecked plane was part of a squadron of 29 B-29s enroute from Spokane, Wash., to Okinawa in the Far Pacific.

Rural Educators Facing Tough Financial Problem

term total expenses amounted to $806,257.53, McDowell said.

OF THE total spent in 1942-43, McDowell said $33,485 was used for bond retirement and interest. Last year, $36,312.89 went for bond retirement and interest. The remainder for both terms was accounted for in school operations.

For the most part, McDowell declared, county schools are keeping within their budgets. However, increased revenue through tax levies is urgently needed to provide "a financial cushion and to stay ahead of the bounds."

Pointing to two average schools in the county, McDowell said in 1942-43 teacher salaries in one school amounted to $11,347.41 and in 1947-48 the same amount totalled $22,600.76.

In the other school in 1942-43, teacher salaries were $18,528.15 compared to $34,560.74 last term. At the same time, the superintendent reported, other costs were rising proportionately.

For example, he said, wages for janitors, engineers and other expenses cost $17,182.89 in 1942-43 in all county schools. Last term that figure jumped to $28,855.34.

Cost of fuel, water, light, power, supplies and telephones for all county schools last term totalled $48,129.67. Five years ago, McDowell said, those same expenses amounted to $24,142.39—almost 50 percent less.

Transportation costs for the county school system increased likewise. This item includes salaries for bus drivers and contract drivers, repairs and other costs excluding bus payments.

IN 1942-43 transportation for school purposes cost the county $60,436.54. Last term the same amount had risen to $79,549.63, McDowell declared.

Expenses for veteran training courses conducted in various county schools were included in the overall total for last term, McDowell said. Veteran training alone accounted for $30,719.76.

This expense is not included in the total of five years ago because such courses and facilities were not provided by the Veterans Administration until a year ago.

Pigeon Prodder May Idle Some Hat Cleaners

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—It's still too early to predict that any of Capitol Square's hat-cleaning shops will have to go out of business.

But it can be said that the pesky statehouse pigeons don't like it.

A "pigeon eradicator" installed on a trial basis on one side of the century-old statehouse apparently works. The electronic device, which sets up a field of static electricity on the ledges where the pigeons roost, gives them a hot-foot they don't like.

A few of the more intrepid birds came back for a second dose, but twice was enough even for them.

The eradicator, if installed all over the building, may create a minor unemployment problem. Four men are now assigned to the full-time job of cleaning up after the birds—and even they can't cope entirely with the situation.

Following is a comparative listing of school expenses for the years 1912-43 and 1947-48.

Circleville Township—$2,808.84 to $3,546; Darby Township—$25,230.16 to $57,163.09; Deer Creek Township—$20,904.65 to $59,796.27; Harrison Township—$25,626.85 to $38,938.84; Jackson Township—$31,410.26 to $58,721.24; Madison Township—$10,369.19 to $16,883.67; Monroe Township—$22,918.27 to $55,711.41; Muhlenberg Township—$14,328.65 to $17,337.53; Perry Township—$20,684.12 to $34,170.17; Pickaway Township—$40,109.67 to $70,215.19; Salt Creek Township—$21,149.84 to $47,974.19; Scioto Township—$30,182.72 to $76,091.20; Walnut Township—$45,306.13 to $86,384.11; Washington Township—$20,185.97 to $34,239.42; Wayne Township—$11,433.05 to $23,342.48; Ashville village—$20,106.14 to $43,105.91; Ashville-Harrison—$12,876.73 to $25,221.27; New Holland village—$30,346.23 to $56,512.35; and Turlington rural—$2,513.97 to $903.16.

Last year was the last time the Turlington school will appear on the county expense listings since the school was consolidated with Washington Township, McDowell revealed.

Famed Aerialists Visit City On Way To Coney

Betty and Benny Fox, aerialist-acrobatic team, passed through Circleville Wednesday morning to fill a two-week engagement at Coney Island Park near Cincinnati.

The pair thrilled Circleville audiences last year by dancing and performing acrobatic antics atop an 18-inch platform more than 100 feet above Main street, and, probably much to the amazement of the spectators who saw the act, are still in one piece and going strong.

Benny, manager of the team, said his show would open at Coney Island Friday. He added they were booked at one of the highest prices ever paid a team at the park, the amount running into four figures.

Benny said he and Betty have been booked for a 16-week performance in London following their engagement at the Ohio playground, and are to give a command performance for the King and Queen of England.

The pair are to receive $3,500 per week in their England performance.

Benny said he considered Circleville his catapult into national entertainment classification, since the act had played continuously since its stay here.

THE BIG STORY, however, was expected to come from Mrs. Kosenkina's own lips.

Only once before, in a tense bedside interview the day after she was critically-injured in her daring leap, has she offered any explanation of what happened.

At that time she accused Soviet consul officials of having held her prisoner for five fear-filled days after they carried her off from an anti-Communist rest haven.

At her own insistence, authorities at the hospital had arranged a news conference for the Russian teacher yesterday.

But it was called off because the preparations and excitement exhausted her.

her employer in Dutch with the publicity."

Hiss admitted that the mysterious phone call could not be traced.

He testified also that he is attempting to locate a family who lived next door to the apartment he said he rented to "Crosley."

Most of the morning session was given over to bitter wrangling about that Washington apartment.

Hiss said that his brother, Donald, who also was named by Chambers as a Communist, cannot recall having known "Crosley."

THE WITNESS emphasized his conviction that his case rests in large part on the "Crosley" matter. He said fervently:

"I hope I will be able to find others than myself and my wife who knew Crosley."

Chambers sat in stern silence as Hiss testified.

Hiss launched into a detailed account of his relations with "Crosley." He said he last saw that individual in 1935. Chambers challenged this, declaring the date was 1938.

Committee Chairman Thomas, (R) N. J., opened the public hearing by reviewing the charges and counter-charges in the case.

The hearing room was hushed as Thomas quoted Chambers' testimony that "a Communist apparatus" operated in the government during the period 1934-37 and that "Alger Hiss was a member of this group."

Thomas, his bald head gleaming under the merciless glare of klieg lights, told how Hiss had denied the charge under oath and had denied that he ever knew a man named Whittaker Chambers.

The chairman said that the purpose of the "Communist" to which chambers linked Hiss was "Communist infiltration of the American government, with espionage as one of its eventual objectives."

Chambers, although pale, gave no sign of worry. When he spoke, it was with deliberate emphasis.

Thomas refused Hiss's demand that he be allowed to read his denunciation of the committee's "trigger" tactics and his challenge of Chambers' veracity.

Army Probing Pair Of Air Accidents

NEWTON, N. J., Aug. 25—A three-pronged investigation opened today into the mid-air collision and crash of two U. S. Air Force planes over Newton, in which nine men were killed.

The Army, Civil Aeronautics Authority and New Jersey state police launched separate probes into the flaming crash of a C-47 transport plane on a New Jersey farm following its collision with a B-25 bomber.

Seven enlisted men and two crew members of the transport were killed when the plane crashed. The B-25 carried two officers and an enlisted man. All escaped injury.

In another AAF accident, 16 airmen were killed and four critically injured last night when a B-29 superfortress crashed and burst into flames at Honolulu's Hickam Field.

The wrecked plane was part of a squadron of 29 B-29s enroute from Spokane, Wash., to Okinawa in the Far Pacific.

Rural Educators Facing Tough Financial Problem

total expenses amounted to $806,257.53, McDowell said.

OF THE total spent in 1942-43, McDowell said $33,485 was used for bond retirement and interest. Last year, $36,312.89 went for bond retirement and interest.

The remainder for both terms was accounted for in school operations. For the most part, McDowell declared, county schools are keeping within their budgets. However, increased revenue through tax levies is urgently needed to provide "a financial cushion and to stay ahead of the hounds."

Pointing to two average schools in the county, McDowell said in 1942-43 teacher salaries in one school amounted to $11, 247.41 and in 1947-48 the same account totalled $22,600.76.

In the other school in 1942-43, teacher salaries were $18,528.15 compared to $34,560.74 last term. At the same time, the superintendent reported, other costs were rising proportionately.

For example, he said, wages for janitors, engineers and other expenses cost $17,182.89 in 1942-43 in all county schools. Last term that figure jumped to $28,855.34.

Cost of fuel, water, light, power, supplies and telephones for all county schools last term totalled $48,129.67. Five years ago, McDowell said, those same expenses amounted to $24,142.39—almost 50 percent less.

Transportation costs for the county school system increased likewise. This item includes salaries for bus drivers and contract drivers, repairs and other costs excluding bus payments.

IN 1942-43 transportation for school purposes cost the county $60,436.54. Last term the same account had risen to $79,549.63, McDowell declared.

Expenses for veteran training courses conducted in various county schools were included in the overall total for last term, McDowell said. Veteran training alone accounted for $30,719.76.

This expense is not included in the total of five years ago because such courses and facilities were not provided by the Veterans Administration until a year ago.

Following is a comparative listing of school expenses for the years 1942-43 and 1947-48.

Circleville Township—$2,808.84 to $3,546; Darby Township—$25,230.16 to $57,163.09; Deercreek Township—$20,904.65 to $59,796.27; Harrison Township—$25,626.85 to $38,938.84; Jackson Township—$31,410.26 to $58,721.24; Madison Township—$10,369.19 to $16,883.67.

Monroe Township—$22,918.27 to $55,711.41; Muhlenberg Township—$14,328.65 to $17,337.53; Perry Township—$20,684.12 to $34,170.17; Pickaway Township—$40,109.67 to $70,215.19; Salt Creek Township—$12,149.84 to $47,974.19; Scioto Township—$30,182.72 to $76,091.20.

Walnut Township—$45,306.13 to $86,384.11; Washington Township—$20,185.97 to $34,239.42; Wayne Township—$11,433.05 to $23,342.48; Ashville village—$20,106.14 to $43,105.91; Ashville Harrison—$12,876.73 to $25,221.27; New Holland village—$30,346.23 to $56,512.35; and Tilton rural—$2,513.97 to $903.16.

Last year was the last time the Tilton school will appear on the county expense listings since the school was consolidated with Washington Township, McDowell revealed.

Yuletide Appears On Hottest Day

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—Christmas bells, colored stars and Santa Claus lights shone down on a Columbus Chamber of Commerce committee last evening, following the hottest day of the year.

A part of Central Columbus was brightly lighted by the Yuletide spirit while the committee did its Christmas shopping early to avoid the rush for street decorations.

Famed Aerialists Visit City On Way To Coney

Betty and Benny Fox, aerialist-acrobatic team, passed through Circleville Wednesday morning to fill a two-week engagement at Coney Island Park near Cincinnati.

The pair thrilled Circleville audiences last year by dancing and performing acrobatic antics atop an 18-inch platform more than 100 feet above Main street, and, probably much to the amazement of the spectators who saw the act, are still in one piece and going strong.

Benny, manager of the team, said his show would open at Coney Island Friday. He added they were booked at one of the highest prices ever paid a team at the park, the amount running into four figures.

Benny said he and Betty have been booked for a 16-week performance in London following their engagement at the Ohio playground, and are to give a command performance for the King and Queen of England.

The pair are to receive $3,500 per week in their England performance.

Benny said he considered Circleville his cataput into national entertainment classification, since the act had played continuously since its stay here.

The 44-year-old Lomakin, whom the U. S. last week accused of "gross misconduct" in connection with the Kosenkina and Samarine cases, was defended in these words:

"The Soviet government considers that its actions and statements and those of its official representatives in the U. S. in the Kosenkina and Samarine cases fully correspond to the lawful interests whereby the Soviet Union has to defend its citizens against their freedom and civil rights."

GE Winning Two Battles: Housing And Construction

caught out on a limb sans roof over his head. Numerous "strings" played out for quarters for his family, but as of Wednesday morning, none had produced.

Grigg said of the eight other executives, only he, himself, plans building a home. He has a lot on Atwater avenue and hopes to get construction underway in the near future.

One other GE executive purchased a home while the remaining six have secured rentals.

GRIGG SAID Wednesday that he and his eight aides would be spending practically fulltime in Circleville after Sept. 1 as GE nears the date when it will start hiring local persons as production workers.

The GE manager repeated he believes that the first "Slimline" lamp, the main product to come out of the Circleville plant, will move off the production line "before the end of the year."

KEEP EYE ON CALENDAR

Oct. 1 Tagged 'Fly Free' Date For Local Wheat

Pickaway County farmers are being urged to keep a wary eye on the calendar when planting winter wheat this year by County Agent L. A. Best.

Best said Wednesday he recommended Oct. 1 as the safest date for wheat sowing this year, since the threat of the Hessian Fly will be practically nil at that time.

The Hessian Fly, which in the past has caused many farmers a severe loss in wheat production, is one of the farmer's worst enemies, according to the agent, and he went on to explain that the pest is on the increase in the three year cycle.

In explaining about the fly, Best stated that its cycle begins in the Fall when the adult attaches its spawn to the new wheat shoots.

In later months, the spawn is

ROME, Aug. 25—The Italian Chamber of Labor ordered a general strike in Caltanissetta province in Sicily today in protest against the arrest of Deputy Gino Cortese and other Communist leaders.

In explaining about the fly, Best stated that its cycle begins in the Fall when the adult attaches its spawn to the new wheat shoots.

In later months, the spawn is in a "flaxid" form, remaining dormant through the winter period.

HOWEVER, the larvae of the Hessian Fly hatches out in early Spring, eating the young shoots and causing the stalks to fall beneath their own weight.

Best said he has seen fields practically leveled by the pest.

Because of the danger from the fly, extensive research has been done for the benefit of the farmer, and the period from Oct. 1 on has been proclaimed "safest" by entomologists at the extension branch at Ohio State university.

Ohio varieties of wheat stand well against most others in the wheat world, according to the experts, both in quality and hardness.

Thorne wheat is still the most highly recommended variety in Ohio, for its durability and dependable yield.

However, there are others which rank high also. Some of them are Butler and Trumbull. Butler is a new white-chaffed, bearded wheat which exceeds Thorne in yield and has a good reaction to scab, and Trumbull is a slightly lower-yielding wheat, but has a higher test weight in comparison with Thorne and Trumbull.

Phosphate and potash fertilizers are recommended on land where wheat crops are rotated with alfalfa or other soilbuilding legumes. Grades 0-12-12 and 0-20-20 are suggested for this type fertilization, whereas, with less productive ground, the 4-12-8, 3-12-12 or 4-16-8 are most highly recommended.

Big Question: How Much Can Man Perjure Himself?

WASHINGTON, Aug 25—Once again today, the question arises: How much can a man perjure himself before a congressional investigating committee — and get away with it?

Not too long ago, a wartime bigshot (Benny Meyers) was convicted of such perjury and sent to prison. But in that case, definite records gave the lie to his testimony.

Now, however, if written records exist, they have not yet been produced. It becomes a case of one man's word against another—and once again, accuser meets accused under the klieg lights in open session of the congressional committee on un-American activities.

Considering the fact that there are half a dozen or more clear-cut points on which their testimony presents exactly the opposite picture, it would seem not too difficult to determine definitely which is lying. Nevertheless—but first the principals:

Accuser — Whittaker Chambers, admitted former Communist and now a senior editor of Time Magazine;

Accused—Alger Hiss, former State department official who was prominent in a number of big wartime Allied conferences.

SO MUCH has been written about the testimony of the two, that a recounting from the committee record on the exact points of difference probably would clarify the situation now facing the investigators.

The first point involves the question of whether Hiss was a leader in an underground organization of the Communist Party. Testimony follows:

Chambers—"Also a member of this (top level Communist) group x x x was Alger Hiss who, as a member of the State department later organized the conference at Dumbarton Oaks, San Francisco and the United States side of the Yalta conference."

Hiss—"I am not and never have been a member of the Communist Party." I do not and never have adhered to the tenets of the Communist Party."

Next was the question of whether Chambers actually visited the Hiss home at the time he broke with the party in what he termed an effort to persuade the latter to do the same. Said Chambers:

"x x x I tried to break him away from the party. As a matter of fact, he cried when we separated. When I left him, he absolutely refused to break."

Hiss was read the Chambers testimony and reminded that the perjury laws also would apply to his own answer. He replied:

"I do know that I am testifying under those same laws to the direct contrary!"

Then there was a question of whether Mrs. Hiss was a Communist.

Chambers: "Mrs. Hiss was also a member of the Communist Party."

Hiss: "She has never been a Communist. Again I must say under oath to the best of my knowledge, I think my knowledge is better than Mr. Chambers on that."

THEN, prior to their being brought together in New York by the committee, there was the key point of whether Hiss even knew Chambers.

Chambers, of course, testified repeatedly that they were close friends and that he was "very fond of Mr. Hiss." However, Hiss, referring to the name of "Chambers" and to pictures he had been shown of him, testified:

"So far as I am aware, I have never laid eyes on him."

Finally, after being brought face to face in a New York hotel room, committee investigators reported Hiss said he had known Chambers—but under another name, and that he said dental surgery apparently had altered his features in the several years' interim.

Here again, however they continued to flatly contradict one another. Chambers charged that he was known to Hiss under the Communist Party name of "Carl." Hiss insisted that he knew him only as "George Crosley," a free lance writer.

Chambers said Hiss knew he was a Communist all the time. Hiss said he never knew he was a Communist at all. And so on.

There were other seemingly provable points—business matters allegedly involving the transfer of a car and the subletting of an apartment which presumably would involve leases and titles. But although they gave the lie to one another, no papers were produced to support either's testimony.

Somewhere, it would seem, there exists proof of which is the perjuror. But, as they come face-to-face again, it still hasn't shown.

Big Question: How Much Can Man Perjure Himself?

WASHINGTON, Aug 25—Once again today, the question arises: How much can a man perjure himself before a congressional investigating committee — and get away with it?

Not too long ago, a wartime bigshot (Benny Meyers) was convicted of such perjury and sent to prison. But in that case, definite records gave the lie to his testimony.

Now, however, if written records exist, they have not yet been produced. It becomes a case of one man's word against another—and once again, accuser meets accused under the klieg lights in open session of the congressional committee on unAmerican activities.

Considering the fact that there are half a dozen or more clear-cut points on which their testimony presents exactly the opposite picture, it would seem not too difficult to determine definitely which is lying. Nevertheless—but first the principals:

Accuser — Whittaker Chambers, admitted former Communist and now a senior editor of Time Magazine;

Accused—Alger Hiss, former State department official who was prominent in a number of big wartime Allied conferences.

SO MUCH has been written about the testimony of the two that a recounting from the committee record on the exact points of difference probably would clarify the situation now facing the investigators.

The first point involves the question of whether Hiss was a leader in an underground organization of the Communist Party. Testimony follows:

Chambers—"Also a member of this (top level Communist) group x x x was Alger Hiss who, as a member of the State department later organized the conferences at Dumbarton Oaks, San Francisco and the United States side of the Yalta conference."

Hiss—"I am not and never have been a member of the Communist Party." I do not and never have adhered to the tenets of the Communist Party."

Next was the question of whether Chambers actually visited the Hiss home at the time he broke with the party in what he termed an effort to persuade the latter to do the same. Said Chambers:

"x x x I tried to break him away from the party. As a matter of fact, he cried when we separated. When I left him, he absolutely refused to break."

Hiss read the Chambers testimony and reminded that the perjury laws also would apply to his own answer. He replied:

"I do know that he said that. I also know that I am testifying under those same laws to the direct contrary!"

Then there was a question of whether Mrs. Hiss was a Communist.

Chambers: "Mrs. Hiss was also a member of the Communist Party."

Hiss: "She has never been a Communist. Again I must say under oath to the best of my knowledge. I think my knowledge is better than Mr. Chambers on that."

DANGER FROM SNAILS

ONE of the worst parasitic diseases in the world is one of which few persons in this country have ever heard. This is schistosomiasis, a blood infection by a parasite carried by snails.

Prevalent in tropical countries, it is so common that in the world as a whole one person in eleven suffers from it. The parasite cannot be transferred from one human to another, but enters the human body through bathing or drinking water, after having been bred in the snail's body. Thus the life cycle of this parasite is similar to that of the malaria parasite, which breeds in a mosquito's body. The disease is second only to malaria in importance among parasitic ills.

At Western Reserve university in Cleveland, far from the native haunts of the parasite, a research project is hunting for a means to check it. The federal Public Health Service is providing funds, having become interested when American troops encountered the disease during the war.

The scientists want to find a way to halt the disease without even annoying the snails. They hope to discover means to give the parasite indigestion.

CITY GOVERNMENT

CITY government is not all it should be, and in some cities it is downright bad. At that it has improved over the years.

If the cities of a generation ago had to tackle today's problems, not the least of which is that of traffic, many would have collapsed altogether. The municipal governments of today at least keep going.

They would do even better if they were not, most of them, restricted by hampering laws passed by legislators from rural districts.

New restrictions on installment buying, authorized by the new anti-inflation legislation, will shorten decidedly the payment time on new cars, thus freezing out many buyers with modest incomes. Add the raising prices on new cars, and it begins to look as if the automobile were on its way to becoming a luxury product.

Luis Taruc, Philippine guerrilla leader, has made peace with the government and will star in a movie based on his career, for which he also will write the script. Sounds like one way to take care of difficult characters.

The poorest kept secret of 1948 was the fact that the third Philadelphia convention would nominate Henry Wallace.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Whether Alger Hiss was or is or has been or has never been and is not a Communist is something for the committees of Congress and the grand juries and courts to decide and also they have to decide whether he was privileged to be what he was or was not and who is lying.

However, way back in about 1941, I came across the existence of the Ware Group in Washington who were engaged in placing Communists in the most critical positions in the Federal government. I was then told who the original 10 were and among them was mentioned Alger Hiss. I naturally did not publish the name because I could not prove the fact. However, it is a remarkable coincidence that every name on that Ware list has risen to high office in the Federal government and is now accused of espionage. I wish further to note that I was then informed that the Dies committee had turned over to the Department of Justice the full data on the Ware Group.

But this is only incidental to my subject today, which is "Merchants of Death." Quincy Howe, editor of "Living Age" from 1929 to 1935, gathered documents showing that the armament makers of France and Germany were in collusion to make money out of war. This material was eventually published in "Fortune" magazine under the caption "Arms and the Men" (March, 1934). Those engaged in the business of manufacturing munitions of war were labeled "Merchants of Death."

Sen. Gerald P. Nye set up a committee of the Senate to investigate American munitions manufacturers and he traveled up and down the country attacking them, demanding "conscription of wealth," "taking profits out of war." This campaign was so effective that it left the United States without an adequate munitions industry when war came. I engaged in debates on the subject in several cities, calling attention to the danger of this propaganda, and was smeared as a hireling of munitions makers. So competent was the work of the Nye Committee, of Quincy Howe's material and the "Fortune" article, that anyone whom they attacked and smeared was repudiated.

Now, this Nye committee possessed vast powers. It could subpoena the files of every manufacturer in the United States whom it suspected of being engaged in the manufacture of arms and munitions; it could investigate the relations of such manufacturers with similar ones in Europe. It could ferret out every research that was being done to improve American weapons of defense and offense.

Its purpose was clearly and admittedly to disarm America. That was done as anyone knows who remembers Pearl Harbor.

So we come to Alger Hiss. He and Charles Kramer, also accused of Communist espionage, were employees, investigators, research workers and aides to Sen. Nye.

There again is the long arm of coincidence. Who shall say that it is not true that Alger Hiss, coming out of the Harvard law school, did not take the Nye committee on just as a job?

Why does not Congress investigate the files of the Nye Committee to discover how that body came into existence and under what inspiration?

DIET AND HEALTH

A Mother's Diet in Pregnancy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE proper diet is of importance at all times of life but it is never of greater moment than during pregnancy.

Studies of large groups of women have definitely established that there is a close relationship between the character of the mother's diet and the development of the baby.

Poor Diet

For example, it was found that when women are on a poor diet during pregnancy, the number of early or premature births and stillbirths is higher than in women who receive a good diet. Furthermore, women who receive a good diet have healthy babies and suffer fewer complications during pregnancy and childbirth. The ability of the mother to nurse her baby also is affected by the quality of her diet during pregnancy.

Animal experiments have been carried out to show that failure to provide all of the necessary food parts during pregnancy may result in abnormal development of the tissues of the offspring, resulting in what is known as congenital malformation, that is, malformation present at the time of birth.

However, thus far no one has been able to prove the relationship between such congenital malformations in human beings and dietary deficiencies in the mother during pregnancy.

Nevertheless, because there is such good evidence that proper diet during pregnancy lessens the likelihood of complications and contributes to safer delivery of the baby and better health of the infant, it is important that everything possible be done to insure proper diet during pregnancy.

The following are the requirements for such a diet during pregnancy: It should consist of 2600 calories or heat units, with 55 grams (about 3 ounces) of protein obtained from such foods as meat, milk and eggs. There should be 1 1/2 grams of calcium coming from such foods as milk and cheese. There should be 15 milligrams of iron, which should be obtained from such iron-rich foods as whole-grain cereals, meat, and liver. It should supply 6000 units of nicotinic acid which is a part of vitamin C, 1.8 of vitamin B-2 and 2 1/2 of vitamin B-6, and 18 milligrams of nicotinic acid which is a part of the vitamin B-complex. There should also be from 400 to 800 units of vitamin D.

In so far as vitamins are concerned, with the exception of vitamin D, they can, as a rule, be obtained from the usual foods included in the diet. For example, orange and tomato juice supply vitamin C. Vitamin B-6 is obtained from whole-grain cereals and meats. However, if there is any question of a vitamin deficiency, preparations of vitamins may be prescribed by the physician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. J.: My husband is having pain in his right leg, particularly when he bends it. The pain seems to be in the knee. What would you recommend he do?

Answer: Pain in the knee may be due to arthritis or inflammation of the knee joint. It may be due to some disturbance of the muscles or tissues around the joint, or to cartilage trouble within the joint itself. A thorough study by an orthopedic specialist is advisable.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

THE TELEPHONE rang and Lynn went to answer it.

Rowley's voice spoke, "Lynn?"

"Rowley?"

Her voice sounded depressed. He said:

"What are you up to? I never see you these days."

"Oh well—it's all chores—you know. Running around with a basket, waiting for fish and queuing up for a bit of quite disgusting cake. All that sort of thing. Home life."

"I want to see you. I've got something to tell you."

"What sort of thing?"

He gave a chuckle.

"Good news. Meet me by Rolland Copse. We're ploughing up there."

Good news? Lynn put the receiver down. What to Rowley Cloade would be good news? Finance? Had he sold that young bull at a better price than he had hoped to get?

No, she thought, it must be more than that. As she walked up the field to Rolland Copse, Rowley left the tractor and came to meet her.

"Hello, Lynn."

"Why, Rowley—you look—different somehow?"

He laughed.

"I should think I do. Our luck's turned, Lynn!"

"What do you mean?"

"Do you remember old Jeremy mentioning a chap called Hercule Poirot?"

"Hercule Poirot?" Lynn frowned.

"Yes, I do remember something—"

"Quite a long time ago. When the war was on. They were in that mausoleum of a club of his and there was an Air Raid."

"Well?" Lynn demanded impatiently.

"Fellow has the wrong clothes and all that. French chap—or Belgian. Queer fellow but he's the goods all right."

Lynn knit her brows:

"Wasn't he a detective?"

"That's right. Well, you know, this fellow who was done in at the Stag. I didn't tell you but an idea was getting around that he might just possibly be Rosaleen Cloade's first husband."

Lynn laughed.

"Simply because he called himself Enoch Arden? What an absurd idea!"

"Not so absurd, my girl. Old Spence got Rosaleen down to a look at him. And she swore quite firmly that he wasn't her husband."

"So that finished it?"

"It might have," said Rowley. "But for me!"

"For you? What did you do?"

"I went to this fellow Hercule Poirot. I told him we wanted another opinion. Could he rustle up someone who had actually known Robert Underhay? My word, but he's absolutely wizard that chap! Just like rabbits out of a hat. He produced a fellow who was Underhay's best friend in a few hours. Old boy called Porter. Rowley stopped. Then he chuckled again with that note of excitement that had surprised and startled Lynn. "Now keep this under your hat, Lynn. The Super swore me to secrecy—but I'd like you to know. The dead man is Robert Underhay."

"What?" Lynn took a step back. She stared at Rowley blankly.

"Robert Underhay himself. Porter hadn't the least doubt. So you see, Lynn—"

Rowley's voice rose excitedly—"we've won! After all, we've won! We've beaten those blasted crooks!"

"What blasted crooks?"

"Hunter and his sister. They're licked—out of it. Rosaleen doesn't get Gordon's money. We get it. It's ours! Gordon's will that he made before he married Rosaleen holds good and that divides it, amongst us. I get a fourth share. See? If her first husband was alive when she married Gordon, she was never married to Gordon at all!"

"Are you—are you sure of what you're saying?"

He stared at her, for the first time he looked faintly puzzled.

"Of course I'm sure! It's elementary. Everything's all right now. It's the same as Gordon meant it to be. Everything's the same as if that precious pair had never butted in."

Everything's the same. . . . But you couldn't, Lynn thought, wash out like that something that had happened. You couldn't pretend that it had never been. She said slowly:

"What will they do?"

"Eh?" She saw that until that moment Rowley had hardly considered that question. "I don't know. Go back where they came from, I suppose. I think, you know—"

She could see him slowly following it out. "Yes, I think we ought to do something for her. I mean, she married Gordon in all good faith. I gather she really believed her first husband was dead. It's not her fault. Yes, we must do something about her—give her a decent allowance. Make it up between us all."

"You like her, don't you?" said Lynn.

"Well, yes." He considered. "I do in a way. She's a nice kid. She knows a cow when she sees it."

"I don't," said Lynn.

"Oh you'll learn," said Rowley kindly.

"And what about—David?" asked Lynn.

Rowley scowled.

"Drat David! It was never his money anyway. He just came along and sponged on his sister."

"No, Rowley, it wasn't like that—it wasn't. He's not a sponger. He's—he's an adventurer, perhaps—"

"And a ruddy murderer!"

She said breathlessly: "What do you mean?"

"Well, who do you think killed Underhay?"

She cried: "I don't believe it. I don't believe it!"

"Of course he killed Underhay! Who else could have done it? He was down here that day. Came down by the five-thirty. I was meeting some stuff at the station and caught sight of him in the distance."

Lynn said sharply: "He went back to London that evening."

"After having killed Underhay," said Rowley triumphantly.

"You oughtn't to say things like that, Rowley. What time was Underhay killed?"

"Well—I don't know exactly. Rowley slowed up—considered. "Don't suppose we shall know until the Inquest tomorrow. Some time between nine and ten, I imagine."

"David caught the nine-twenty train back to London."

"Look here, Lynn, how do you know?"

"I—I met him—he was running for it."

"How do you know he ever caught it?"

"Because he telephoned me from London later."

Rowley scowled angrily.

"What should he telephone you for? Look here, Lynn, I'm dashed if I—"

"Oh what does it matter, Rowley? Anyway, it shows he caught that train."

"Plenty of time to have killed Underhay and then run for the train."

"Not if he was killed after nine o'clock."

"Well, he may have been killed just before nine."

But his voice was a little doubtful.

Lynn half-closed her eyes. Was that the truth of it? When, breathless, swearing, David had emerged from the copse, had it been a murder fresh from his crime who had taken her in his arms? She remembered his curious excitement—the recklessness of his mood? Was that the way that murder would affect him? It might. She had to admit it. Were David and murder so far removed from each other? Would he kill a man who had never done him any harm—a ghost from the past? A man whose only crime was to stand between Rosaleen and a big inheritance—between David and the enjoyment of Rosaleen's money.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER NEW YORK—They tell me that far out in the western badlands there are cowboy singers unknown to New Yorkers who are fabulously famous in their own precincts and whose phonograph records are awaited breathlessly in the cowtown saloons boasting jukeboxes. They also tell me that the deep South has mountain-music makers whose incomes are exceptionally respectable even alongside those of Sinatra and Crosby—singers and accordionists and guitar-players whose popularity is purely local and whose names are complete strangers to Manhattan.

This seems only reasonable, since we have here in New York a gentleman named Morey Amsterdam who, very likely, is unheard of in Tallahassee or Goose Creek but who enjoys a glory in this city that transcends even Ingrid Bergman's. Morey is beginning to branch out now as a coast-to-coast radio comedian and he would seem a fairly sure bet to be the new national rage in a few seasons, especially with his juicy potential in television—but for years he was the New Yorker's own beloved comedian.

His jokes were peculiarly Manhattan jokes and his songs and routines had the unmistakable flavor of a sturgeon sandwich at Lindy's.

Perhaps his biggest asset is being able to be funny for great stretches of time. Last winter he appeared nightly at a little cellar cafe called the Playgoers, which he also owned.

It was his custom to give two-hour-long shows, in which he and the alone did all the entertaining—gagging, singing, imitating and doing everything but making believe he was four Hawaiians. I got a sample of this rapid-fire routine this morning over coffee in Reuben's restaurant on 58th street.

Sharply attired in a white sport shirt and copper-colored sport jacket, Morey was informative, humorous, serious and demented by turns—and he never stopped talking.

DANGER FROM SNAILS

ONE of the worst parasitic diseases in the world is one of which few persons in this country have ever heard. This is schistosomiasis, a blood infection by a parasite carried by snails.

Prevalent in tropical countries, it is so common that in the world as a whole one person in eleven suffers from it. The parasite cannot be transferred from one human to another, but enters the human body through bathing or drinking water, after having been bred in the snail's body. Thus the life cycle of this parasite is similar to that of the malaria parasite, which breeds in a mosquito's body. The disease is second only to malaria in importance among parasitic ills.

At Western Reserve university in Cleveland, far from the native haunts of the parasite, a research project is hunting for a means to check it. The federal Public Health Service is providing funds, having become interested when American troops encountered the disease during the war.

The scientists want to find a way to halt the disease without even annoying the snails. They hope to discover means to give the parasite indigestion.

CITY GOVERNMENT

CITY government is not all it should be, and in some cities it is downright bad. At that it has improved over the years.

If the cities of a generation ago had to tackle today's problems, not the least of which is that of traffic, many would have collapsed altogether. The municipal governments of today at least keep going.

They would do even better if they were not, most of them, restricted by hampering laws passed by legislators from rural districts.

New restrictions on instalment buying, authorized by the new anti-inflation legislation, will shorten decidedly the payment time on new cars, thus freezing out many buyers with modest incomes. Add the raising prices on new cars, and it begins to look as if the automobile were on its way to becoming a luxury product.

Luis Taruc, Philippine guerrilla leader, has made peace with the government and will star in a movie based on his career, for which he also will write the script. Sounds like one way to take care of difficult characters.

The poorest kept secret of 1948 was the fact that the third Philadelphia convention would nominate Henry Wallace.

These Days

Whether Alger Hiss was or is or has been or has never been and is not a Communist is something for the committees of Congress and the grand juries and courts to decide and also they have to decide whether he was privileged to be what he was or was not and who is lying.

However, way back in about 1941, I came across the existence of the Ware Group in Washington who were engaged in placing Communists in the most critical positions in the Federal government. I was then told who the original 10 were and among them was mentioned Alger Hiss. I naturally did not publish the name because I could not prove the fact. However, it is a remarkable coincidence that every name on that Ware list has risen to high office in the Federal government and is now accused of espionage. I wish further to note that I was then informed that the Dies committee had turned over to the Department of Justice the full data on the Ware Group.

But this is only incidental to my subject today, which is "Merchants of Death." Quincy Howe, editor of "Living Age" from 1929 to 1935, gathered documents showing that the armament makers of France and Germany were in collusion to make money out of war. This material was eventually published in "Fortune" magazine under the caption "Arms and the Men" (March, 1934). Those engaged in the business of manufacturing munitions of war were labeled "Merchants of Death."

Sen. Gerald P. Nye set up a committee of the Senate to investigate American munitions manufacturers and he traveled up and down the country attacking them, demanding "conscription of wealth," "taking profits out of war." This campaign was so effective that it left the United States without an adequate munitions industry when war came. I engaged in debates on the subject in several cities, calling attention to the danger of this propaganda, and was smeared as a hiring of munitions makers. So competent was the work of the Nye Committee, of Quincy Howe's material and the "Fortune" article, that anyone whom they attacked and smeared was repudiated.

Now, this Nye committee possessed vast powers. It could subpoena the files of every manufacturer in the United States whom it suspected of being engaged in the manufacture of arms and munitions; it could investigate the relations of such manufacturers with similar ones in Europe. It could ferret out every research that was being done to improve American weapons of defense and offense.

Its purpose was clearly and admittedly to disarm America. That was done as anyone knows who remembers Pearl Harbor.

So we come to Alger Hiss. He and Charles Kramer, also accused of Communist espionage, were employees, investigators, research workers and aides to Sen. Nye.

There again is the long arm of coincidence. Who shall say that it is not true that Alger Hiss, coming out of the Harvard law school, did not take the Nye committee on just as a job?

Why does not Congress investigate the files of the Nye Committee to discover how that body came into existence and under what inspiration?

I ASKED AMSTERDAM if he ever had run dry of words during a public appearance and he said only once. That was on a New Year's day at San Quentin prison. Morey was one of a car full of entertainers who stayed up all night New Year's eve and then drove up to the prison in the morning to entertain the inmates.

After their show the performers were passing through the prison halls on the way out to their cars, when one guy stuck his head through the bars of his cell and yelled, "Hey, Morey!"

The cell, Morey found, was in condemned room. The guy who yelled was a man who had played cops and robbers and cowboys and Indians with him when they both were kids in San Francisco. His mother and sister were just leaving his cell.

It was his last day on earth. As a result of having put a hole in the head of a bank guard, "I'm human and I'm an alleged comedian and I'm supposed to be able to talk a mile a minute," Morey told me. "—but what do you say to a guy who's going to die? It was really the only time in my life I've ever been stumped."

For years Morey has been known as the busiest man on Broadway. Alongside Morey, his press agent insists, a one-armed paper hanger is just an ambitious bum. He wrote songs, made records, appeared on the radio as often as 78 times in one week, starred in moviehouse stage shows and owned and operated the Playboys and a restaurant near Carnegie hall called Morey's.

IT APPEARS NOW THAT ALL this violent activity on the part of Morey was directed to one purpose—to spread the Amsterdam name far and wide. "It was my angle, my way of becoming known," Morey told me.

"The word got around that I was doing all these things at once and people began to talk about me, which is half the battle for an ambitious comic."

"Fred Allen said, 'The only thing I can turn on in my house without getting Amsterdam is the water faucet.' Good night, I didn't like it at all. I'm a good family man and I hated to be away from my brood all that time—but it was my way of acquiring a reputation."

Son of a cellist who plays in the movie orchestras, Morey has been in show business since he quit the University of California at the age of 15. His brother worked in a bigtime act called Amsterdam and Clifford and one week when Clifford was ailing, Morey substituted for him. That, in a big Frisco house, on the same bill with Erice and Jessel.

"My next booking was in a 10th-rate vaudeville house as part of an opening act," Morey recalled. "I bet I was the only comic to start at the top and work my way down."

Amsterdam got into radio years ago, but a talent for insulting sponsors that makes Morgan's seem monotonous.

DIET AND HEALTH

A Mother's Diet in Pregnancy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE proper diet is of importance at all times of life but it is never of greater moment than during pregnancy.

Studies of large groups of women have definitely established that there is a close relationship between the character of the mother's diet and the development of the baby.

Poor Diet

For example, it was found that when women are on a poor diet during pregnancy, the number of early or premature births and stillbirths is higher than in women who receive a good diet. Furthermore, women who receive a good diet have healthy babies and suffer fewer complications during pregnancy and childbirth. The ability of the mother to nurse her baby also is affected by the quality of her diet during pregnancy.

Animal experiments have been carried out to show that failure to provide all of the necessary food parts during pregnancy may result in abnormal development of the tissues of the offspring, resulting in what is known as congenital malformation, that is, malformation present at the time of birth.

However, thus far no one has been able to prove the relationship between such congenital malformations in human beings and dietary deficiencies in the mother during pregnancy.

Nevertheless, because there is such good evidence that proper diet during pregnancy lessens the likelihood of complications and contributes to safer delivery of the baby and better health of the infant, it is important that everything possible be done to insure proper diet during pregnancy.

The following are the requirements for such a diet during pregnancy: It should consist of 2500 calories or heat units, with 85 grams (about 3 ounces) of protein obtained from such foods as meat, milk and eggs. There should be 1 1/2 grams of calcium coming from such foods as milk and cheese. There should be 15 milligrams of iron, which should be obtained from such iron-rich foods as whole-grain cereals, meat, and liver. It should supply 6000 units of nicotinic acid which is a part of vitamin C, 1.8 of vitamin B and 2 1/2 of vitamin B-2, and 18 milligrams of nicotinic acid which is a part of the vitamin B-complex. There should also be from 400 to 800 units of vitamin D.

In so far as vitamins are concerned, with the exception of vitamin D, they can, as a rule, be obtained from the usual foods included in the diet. For example, orange and tomato juice supply vitamin C. Vitamin B is obtained from whole-grain cereals and meats. However, if there is any question of a vitamin deficiency, preparations of vitamins may be prescribed by the physician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. J.: My husband is having pain in his right leg, particularly when he bends it. The pain seems to be in the knee. What would you recommend he do?

Answer: Pain in the knee may be due to arthritis or inflammation of the knee joint. It may be due to some disturbance of the muscles or tissues around the joint, or to cartilage trouble within the joint itself. A thorough study by an orthopedic specialist is advisable.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

THE TELEPHONE rang and Lynn went to answer it. Rowley's voice spoke, "Lynn?"

"Rowley?" Her voice sounded depressed. He said: "What are you up to? I never see you these days."

"Oh well—it's all chores—you know. Running around with a basket, waiting for fish and queuing up for a bit of quite disgusting cake. All that sort of thing. Home life."

"I want to see you. I've got something to tell you."

"What sort of thing?" He gave a chuckle.

"Good news. Meet me by Roland Copse. We're ploughing up there."

"Good news? Lynn put the receiver down. What to Rowley Claude would be good news? Finance? Had he sold that young bull at a better price than he had hoped to get?"

No, she thought, it must be more than that. As she walked up the field to Roland Copse, Rowley left the tractor and came to meet her.

"Hello, Lynn."

"Why, Rowley—you look—different somehow?"

He laughed. "I should think I do. Our luck's turned, Lynn."

"What do you mean?"

"Do you remember old Jeremy mentioning a chap called Hercule Poirot?"

"Hercule Poirot?" Lynn frowned. "Yes, I do remember something—"

"Quite a long time ago. When the war was on. They were in that mausoleum of a club of his and there was an Air Raid."

"Well?" Lynn demanded impatiently.

"Fellow has the wrong clothes and all that. French chap—or Belgian. Queer fellow but he's the goods all right."

Lynn knit her brows. "Wasn't he a detective?"

"That's right. Well, you know, this fellow who was done in at the Stag. I didn't tell you but an idea was getting around that he might just possibly be Rosaleen Claude's first husband."

Lynn laughed. "Simply because he called himself Enoch Arden? What an absurd idea!"

"Not so absurd, my girl. Old Spence got Rosaleen down to a look at him. And she swore quite firmly that he wasn't her husband."

"So that finished it?"

"It might have," said Rowley. "But for me!"

"For you? What did you do?"

"I went to this fellow Hercule Poirot. I told him we wanted an opinion. Could he rustle up someone who had actually known

Robert Underhay? My word, but he's absolutely wizard that chap! Just like rabbits out of a hat. He produced a fellow who was Underhay's best friend in a few hours. Old boy called Porter. Rowley stopped. Then he chuckled again with that note of excitement that had surprised and startled Lynn.

"Now keep this under your hat, Lynn. The Super swore me to secrecy—but I'd like you to know. The dead man is Robert Underhay."

"What?" Lynn took a step back. She stared at Rowley blankly. "Robert Underhay himself. Porter hadn't the least doubt. So you see, Lynn—"

Rowley's voice rose excitedly—"we've won! After all, we've won! We've beaten those blasted crooks!"

"What blasted crooks?"

"Hunter and his sister. They're licked—out of it. Rosaleen doesn't get Gordon's money. We get it. It's ours! Gordon's will that he made before he married Rosaleen holds good and that divides it, amongst us. I get a fourth share. See? If her first husband was alive when she married Gordon, she was never married to Gordon at all!"

"Are you—are you sure of what you're saying?"

He stared at her, for the first time he looked faintly puzzled. "Of course I'm sure! It's elementary. Everything's all right now. It's the same as Gordon meant it to be. Everything's the same as if that precious pair had never butted in."

Everything's the same. . . . But you couldn't, Lynn thought, wash out like that something that had happened. You couldn't pretend that it had never been. She said slowly:

"What will they do?"

"En?" She saw that until that moment Rowley had hardly considered that question. "I don't know. Go back where they came from, I suppose. I think, you know—"

Other meetings will be devoted to the background and historical data of America. Members of the club will read papers dealing with celebrities of the opera, biographies, book reviews, government, the theatre, plays, crops, personalities and religion. Chairman of each bi-monthly session will serve as club reporter.

Seventeen meetings are listed in an attractive blue booklet entrusted with the gold letters "MC" and the dates 1948-1949 on the corner.

Chairmen named for each program include Mrs. A. L. Wilder, Mrs. Clark Will, Miss Alice Ada May, Mrs. Joseph Bell, Mrs. Roger May, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Mrs. Edwin B. The program carries a quotation of Joseph Addison: "One should take good care not to grow too wise for so great a pleasure of life as laughter" which sets the tempo of the social session.

Kiwanians Continue Drive In Anti-Red Education

More than 9,000,000 patriotic pamphlets, based on a wide variety of subjects and designed to show that "It's Fun to Live in America," have been distributed by Kiwanis clubs from coast to coast since the first of the year.

In Circleville, distribution was made by the local Kiwanis Club, under the committee chairmanship of Vernon Hawkes. During school months, 5,000 of the pamphlets were distributed monthly to city and Pickaway County schools. During the Summer vacation period, Hawkes reported, distribution has been limited to city retail store outlets.

Hawkes said that distribution to school children throughout Pickaway County would be resumed with the reopening of schools next month. About 25,000 of the pamphlets have been distributed in Pickaway County to date.

Roscoe Warren, president of the Kiwanis Club of Circleville, said the purpose of the pamphlet campaign is to stress the importance of maintaining the individual enterprise system in the United States.

EACH OF SEVEN pamphlets that have been issued up to this time have made dramatic comparisons between America's form of government and the totalitarian theory of centralized control of business, industry, agriculture, the church, home and school, Warren stated.

Kiwanians throughout the nation are using the pamphlets as inserts with payroll envelopes, statements, circulars and other correspondence. When this phase of the campaign comes to a conclusion in December, it is estimated that nearly 15,000,000 leaflets will have been circulated.

The Kiwanis program has won the endorsement of leaders in business, industry, education and government.

A number of plant publications are reproducing the various pamphlets and countless thousands have been distributed to school children with the thought in mind that "teen-agers" must realize the opportunities that prevail in America.

Warren said the campaign was inspired by Kiwanis International's 1948 administrative theme, "Citizenship Responsibility—the Price of Freedom," and one of this year's objectives which calls upon clubs to "Develop an informed public opinion to combat all ideologies opposed to the democratic principles upon which our nation are founded."

The program is being directed by the service organization's International Committee on Public Affairs for the United States.

Parkway Split Halts Traffic

AKRON, Aug. 25—Workmen began repairs here today on a chasm, 30 feet long and 25 feet deep, which appeared in Tallmadge Parkway late yesterday.

The cavern nearly engulfed a tractor-trailer outfit which snipped its rear wheels off on the edge.

The parkway, a part of State Route 18, main east and west link through Akron, funneled through traffic from the downtown section.

"A cavity formed under the street and when the heavy load went over the arch at the right time, the paving fell," Service Director Marvin Davis said.

Hyer was one of two escapees captured Saturday night near Washington C. H. after five prisoners in the Fayette County jail ganged a deputy and made good their escape.

The couple was married July 1, 1947, in Chillicothe and they are the parents of a six-months-old daughter.

Mrs. Hyer was granted custody of the child while Hyer was ordered to pay $6 per week as support for the child. Judge William D. Radcliff ruled.

Cruelty Cited In Divorce Tilt

Accused of extreme cruelty, John G. Smith was being sued for divorce Tuesday in Pickaway County common pleas court by his wife, Estella M. Smith.

Since their marriage March 22, 1942, in Waverly, Mrs. Smith's petition claims her estranged husband has become cross, sullen and on occasions abuses her.

She is asking the court to allow her alimony and expenses, to be restored to her former name of Estella M. Hunn and that a restraining order be placed against Smith.

Parkway Split Halts Traffic

AKRON, Aug. 25—Workmen began repairs here today on a chasm, 30 feet long and 25 feet deep, which appeared in Tallmadge Parkway late yesterday.

The cavern nearly engulfed a tractor-trailer outfit which snipped its rear wheels off on the edge.

The parkway, a part of State Route 18, main east and west link through Akron, funneled through traffic from the downtown section.

"A cavity formed under the street and when the heavy load went over the arch at the right time, the paving fell," Service Director Marvin Davis said.

Pomeroy Mayor To Hold Post

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—Mayor D. A. Canaday of Pomeroy, apparently is going to keep his job—at least until after the election. Sources in the governor's office have indicated that no immediate action was contemplated with regard to the request of a majority of the Pomeroy city council for Canaday's removal on more than a score of misfeasance charges.

Among other things, the mayor was charged with usurping the power of the council president and with fining persons on charges which were based neither on village ordinance nor state statute.

Rankin Assured Congress Seat

TUPELO, Miss., Aug. 25—John E. Rankin was virtually assured today of reelection for his 15th term as a Mississippi congressman.

Congressman Rankin piled up a wide margin over Circuit Judge Raymond Jarvis and Former Circuit Judge Claude Clayton before they conceded defeat in the Mississippi Democratic primaries.

Unofficial tabulations in yesterday's balloting gave Rankin 12,253 in 155 out of 224 boxes in the first district. Jarvis polled 4,801 and Clayton 3,846. Mississippi is dominantly Democratic.

NEW LEXINGTON, Aug. 25—The United Mine Workers union was restrained by court order today from "coercing" the employees of the non-union J. D. Ross Coal Co.

The company, which employs 22 men, is the third in Perry County to be granted a restraining order against the union. Similar suits were filed Aug. 16 and Aug. 11 by the Benchley-Marsh Coal Co. and the Holbein Co.

Pomeroy Mayor To Hold Post

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—Mayor D. A. Canaday of Pomeroy, apparently is going to keep his job—at least until after the election.

Sources in the governor's office have indicated that no immediate action was contemplated with regard to the request of a majority of the Pomeroy city council for Canaday's removal on more than a score of misfeasance charges.

Among other things, the mayor was charged with usurping the power of the council president and with fining persons on charges which were based neither on village ordinance nor state statute.

Rankin Assured Congress Seat

TUPELO, Miss., Aug. 25—John E. Rankin was virtually assured today of reelection for his 15th term as a Mississippi congressman.

Congressman Rankin piled up a wide margin over Circuit Judge Raymond Jarvis and former Circuit Judge Claude Clayton before they conceded defeat in the Mississippi Democratic primaries.

Unofficial tabulations in yesterday's balloting gave Rankin 12,253 in 155 out of 224 boxes in the first district. Jarvis polled 4,801 and Clayton 3,846. Mississippi is dominantly Democratic.

Lockbourne, Millirons Eliminated

Boys, Isalys Still In Tourney

Millirons and Lockbourne softball teams were eliminated from the Circleville Night Softball League tourney in Ted Lewis Park Tuesday. Millirons edged from competition by Boys with a 4-3 count, and Lockbourne bowing to Isalys 5-1.

The wins by Boys and Isalys moved them into the semifinals of the loser's bracket.

In the Boyd-Milliron contest, Milliron Pitcher Smiley allowed the high schoolers but two hits and gave two walks while his mates rapped out six safeties. However, a series of errors and miscues on the part of his team gave the Boyd crew its one run win in the final innings.

Both teams were unable to post a score in the first three innings, Boys scoring its victory with single tallies in the fourth and fifth frames and a double in the sixth while holding the Scioto Township pers to a single in the fifth and a double in the seventh.

ISALYS BEGAN its game against the Lockbourne Merchant aggregation with a one run lead in the first frame, adding singles in every subsequent frame but the sixth, while allow-

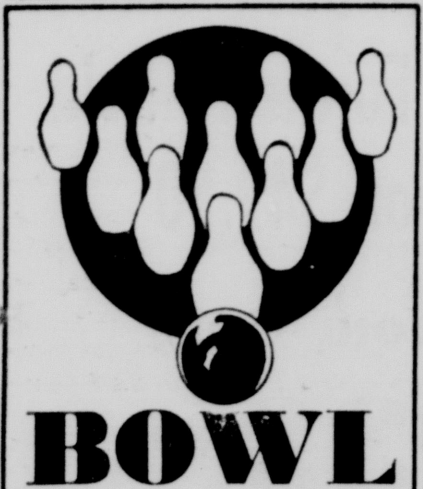

Pacer Cracks Miracle Mile In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 25—Grattan McKlyo, a pacer owned by Mrs. Ben Owens of Omaha, has the distinction today of being the first horse in the country to do a mile in under two minutes this season.

The horse paced a mile in 1:59 4-5 yesterday to take the second heat of the free-for-all pace on the harness racing program at the Wisconsin state despite Grattan McKlyo's performance, another horse, Indian Song, took the event, taking the first heat in 2:00 4-5.

The Dan Patch Pace, went to Poplar Byrd from the Poplar Hills Farm at Lexington, Ky. Poplar Byrd won the event in straight heats.

In another race in the Grand Circuit program, Victory Song was declared the winner after he trotted around the track without opposition. He was the only entry to show up for the race.

Isaly Pitcher Pilkington, a new hurler to Circleville softball fans, allowed the Merchants but one hit in the encounter while whiffing nine and walking but two. The Isaly crew gave its pitcher substantial support in the contest, rapping 10 safeties and committing but two miscues.

Isaly Shortstop Bob Steele blasted the longest hit of the game, a triple to centerfield with one aboard. Junior Anderson and Leon Sims gained second place batting honors in the tilt with two-base hits.

Williams-Flores Tilt Postponed

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—The Ike Williams-Jesse Flores lightweight title bout in Yankee Stadium was set back today from Sept. 22 to Sept. 23.

The change was due to "previous radio commitments," according to the 20th Century Sporting Club.

U. S. Davis Cup Selection Gets Coolish Eye

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Properly restrained, though just a touch dour, were New York's pundits and pontiffs of lawn tennis today in their reception of the four-man American lineup for the Davis Cup challenge round, Sept. 4-6.

The common tendency, in fact, was to accept Ted Schroeder, Frank Parker, Gardnar Mulloy and Billy Talbot without challenge, either overt or implied—although few international teams in America's history have been more vulnerable.

It will be the first in 20 years, for instance, to engage in cup tennis without a "high gun" man of the Tilden, Vines, Budge, Riggs and Kramer type. Its accent moreover is disconcertingly on age, at a 31-year average.

However, outside of those points and the fact that Parker and Schroeder have been miffing for two years, everything is just dandy.

In the circumstances, its great chance apparently is involved with the possibility that it may not be strictly required to beat Australia; that in fact, the Aussies will be accommodating and beat themselves. But, with Parker's nomination—ostensibly for the singles with Schroeder—they weren't so sure that defeat was inevitable.

It will be Parker's first active appearance in Davis Cup tennis since 1939 when Australia's Jack Bromwich made him look like an awful patsy in the match that paid off with the cup.

Jones Sidelined For Browns Tilt

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 25—Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones will be sidelined Friday night when the Cleveland Browns meet the Baltimore Colts in an exhibition game in Toledo.

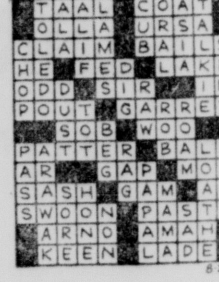

Jones, a halfback, suffered a torn cartilage in his right side in the Browns' 35-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills Sunday in Akron.

The All-America Conference champs' roster was reduced to 40 yesterday with the release of Ends Tod Saylor and Ray Ebl. Saylor had been in camp since the opening of training, but Ebl lasted only a few days.

Circleville Booster Club is to honor the Pickaway County Junior Olympics team in Memorial Hall at 8 p. m. Thursday.

The Boosters plan to give the youthful delegation to the National Junior Olympics meet, to be held on the Baldwin-Wallace college campus near Cleveland Friday and Saturday, a rousing sendoff on the eve of its departure.

Pickaway Olympics Coach Paul "Snow" Seymour is to give a resume of the work and improvements shown by his charges during the past two weeks' practices and John Heiskell, manager of the local team, will explain the program of the meet to the Booster Clubbers.

Circleville's high school football coaches, Steve Brudzinski and Tommy Bennett, are slated for talks, also, and are to outline the 1948 Circleville season.

Wayne Leist will present motion picture shots of the past Red and Black track season.

The Thursday meeting is to be the first since election of officers at Tar Hollow June 27. Everyone interested in Booster Club work has been invited to attend the program, Heiskell said Wednesday.

Lockbourne, Millirons Eliminated

Boyd, Isalys Still In Tourney

Millirons and Lockbourne softball teams were eliminated from the Circleville Night Softball League tourney in Ted Lewis Park Tuesday. Millirons edged from competition by Boyds with a 4-3 count, and Lockbourne bowing to Isalys 5-1.

The wins by Boyds and Isalys moved them into the semifinals of the loser's bracket.

In the Boyd-Milliron contest, Milliron Pitcher Smiley allowed the high schoolers but two hits and gave two walks while his mates rapped out six safeties. However, a series of errors and miscues on the part of his team gave the Boyd crew its one run win in the final innings.

Both teams were unable to post a score in the first three innings, Boyds scoring its victory with single tallies in the fourth and fifth frames and a double in the sixth while holding the Scioto Townshippers to a single in the fifth and a double in the seventh.

ISALYS BEGAN its game against the Lockbourne Merchant aggregation with a one run lead in the first frame, adding singles in every subsequent frame but the sixth, while allowing the Merchants only one tally, a single in the sixth.

Isaly Pitcher Pilkington, a new hurler to Circleville softball fans, allowed the Merchants but one hit in the encounter while whiffing nine and walking but two. The Isaly crew gave its pitcher substantial support in the contest, rapping 10 safeties and committing but two miscues.

Isaly Shortstop Bob Steele blasted the longest hit of the game, a triple to centerfield with one aboard. Junior Anderson and Leon Sims gained second place batting honors in the tilt with two-base hits.

A single game is scheduled for tourney play at the park Wednesday, a loser's bracket tilt between Isalys and Walnut at 7:15 p. m.

U. S. Davis Cup Selection Gets Coolish Eye

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—Properly restrained, though just a touch dour, were New York's pundits and pontiffs of lawn tennis today in their reception of the four-man American lineup for the Davis Cup challenge round, Sept. 4-6.

The common tendency, in fact, was to accept Ted Schroeder, Frank Parker, Gardner Mulloy and Billy Talbot without challenge, either overt or implied—although few international teams in America's history have been more vulnerable.

It will be the first in 20 years, for instance, to engage in cup tennis without a "high gun" man of the Tilden, Vines, Budge, Riggs and Kramer type. Its accent moreover is disconcertingly on age, at a 31-year average.

However, outside of those points and the fact that Parker and Schroeder have been miffing for two years, everything is just dandy.

In the circumstances, its great chance apparently is involved with the possibility that it may not be strictly required to beat Australia; that in fact, the Aussies will be accommodating and beat themselves. But, with Parker's nomination—ostensibly for the singles with Schroeder—they weren't so sure that defeat was inevitable.

It will be Parker's first active appearance in Davis Cup tennis since 1939 when Australia's Jack Bromwich made him look like an awful patsy in the match that paid off with the cup.

Jones Sidelined For Browns Tilt

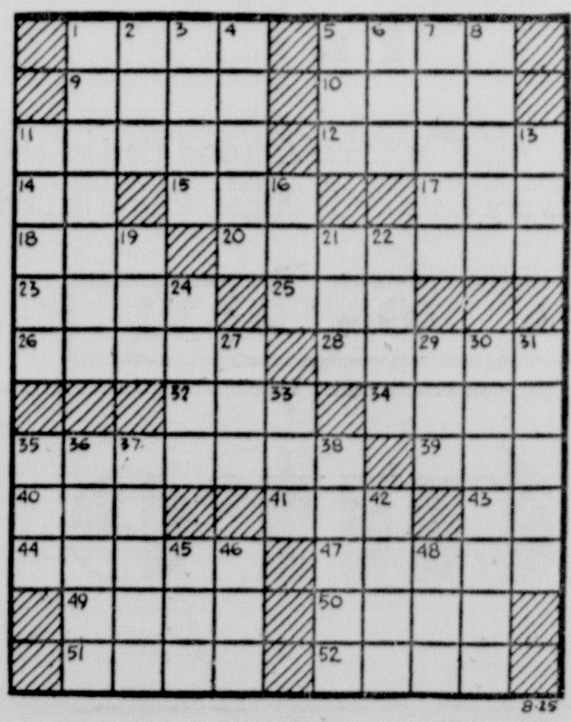

BOWLING GREEN, Aug. 25—Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones will be sidelined Friday night when the Cleveland Browns meet the Baltimore Colts in an exhibition game in Toledo.

Jones, a halfback, suffered a torn cartilage in his right side in the Browns' 35-21 victory over the Buffalo Bills Sunday in Akron.

The All-America Conference champs' roster was reduced to 40 yesterday with the release of Ends Tod Saylor and Ray Ebl. Saylor had been in camp since the opening of training, but Ebl lasted only a few days.
